

Arkansas Fire Protection Code Seminars

Codes & Standards Assessments

The following courses have been developed to help engineers, architects, inspectors, plan reviewers, owner reps, and others understand minimum expectations for code compliance. Does your project comply with “Minimum Code?” Does it satisfy the owners’ needs?

Current Course Topics and Dates Include:

Fire Alarms 1 – Just What You Need to Know

Wednesday August 15th, 2007

Fire Alarms 2 – Knowing a Little More and Plan Review

Thursday August 16th, 2007

Fire Alarms 3 – System Inspection

Not Currently Scheduled

Hazardous Materials – How to Work With Them and Avoid “H” Occupancies

Not Currently Scheduled

If you have an interest in a class not currently scheduled, let us know. Classes can be scheduled based on interest.

Fire alarm training will incorporate use of a voice fire alarm system to measure audibility levels under several conditions. See how walls impact sound. If you have a sound meter, bring it along.

The FA2 class may incorporate a field trip within walking distance to test audibility conditions in several room configurations including large open space and small office areas.

Certificates will be issued for documenting training hours.

- ◆ Understand how voltage drop impacts fire alarm systems.
  - ◆ Understand why fire alarm speakers are required in every office, and strobes are required in every exam room.
  - ◆ Common mistakes in plans and installation.
  - ◆ Review new criteria for smoke detectors.
- Courses are geared around but not limited to:
- ◆ Electrical and Mechanical Engineers
  - ◆ Engineering Drafters
  - ◆ Building Plan Reviewers & Inspectors
  - ◆ Fire Plan Reviewers & Inspectors
  - ◆ Facility Safety Personnel
  - ◆ Architects
  - ◆ Contractors (General, Electrical, etc.)
  - ◆ Contractor Support Staff (office, sales)
